Annual Report: Keeping My Promises

In the 2006 election campaign, I made eight promises. Here's an update on how I kept these promises last year.

1) To create a mobile constituency office to serve neglected & remote areas.

Starting last summer, my staff has been setting up mobile office hours in a number of locations, including Centreville, Cloyne, Sharbot Lake, and Sydenham.

2) To consult constituents on key issues, and act according to their instructions.

I have sent out regular mailings across the riding, to determine whether and to what extent there is support for my position on a number of issues.

3) To continue contributing the funds from the MP pay increase for rural emergency health care.

In 2006, defibrillators were placed in hockey arenas in the riding. In 2007, funds will be distributed based on the areas of greatest need, starting with police vehicles.

4) To transform the Ask if it's Canadian Beef campaign to other commodities and in particular boost 'buying local,' as a way of diversifying the rural economy.

I have conducted three town halls on farm issues, and am setting up a working group to look at how to ensure that domestic & foreign content is clearly labelled.

5) To continue doing what I can to ensure that the property rights of rural Canadians are protected.

In 2006, I was able to speak out on many occasions in favour of property rights and in particular, I testified before a committee of the provincial legislature, requesting that they add property rights to the Clean Water Act.

6) To work for a cleaner voter list, further adjustments to poll locations & ending partisan appointments of Returning Officers.

I successfully convinced the Cabinet to include, within the Accountability Act, a provision requiring that in future, all Returning Officers be appointed by the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada rather than by the governing party (which was the practice until this year).

7) To publish and publicly distribute an Annual Report so that voters can judge whether I am living up to my pledges.

This is my first Annual Report since the 2006 election.

8) To work to reunite Lanark County within the boundaries of a single riding.

I raise this issue whenever possible, in order to keep this issue alive until the next riding "redistribution", which is seven years away.

Annual Report to Constituents

January-December 2006

Dear Constituent,

Ever since I was first elected in Nov. 2000, I have been issuing annual reports to allow voters to review my performance. This report covers the period ending Dec. 31, 2006.

This report includes a financial update. As well, I will update you as to what I've been doing across the constituency over the past year, and on how I'm progressing on fulfilling the election promises I made in the 2006 election.

It is my job to be open and available to all constituents. So if you have a question that is not answered in this report, please contact one of my offices and a member of my staff should be able to assist you.

Sincerely,

Scott Reid, MP
