Let's talk Tuesday. This is the log house on the left on the way into Perth whose bridge was underwater recently. She wants to do interior renovations to the house but rebuild the antique store on its poured foundation. I said I would check with you but likely she would need a permit for the rebuild. Scott Dobson has apparently built a sheep rail fence on the property and she has photos showing the water did not come up to it if that will help.

Hope you have a good long weekend - no working at home!

Hello!

My name is Robyn and I have recently purchased a property in Tay Valley that is mixed residential/commercial. My hope for this property is to have a not for profit forest school and community garden, with space for workshops. This is new territory for me and I am inquiring into what applications need to be filled out. The home will still be used as a residence as my friend (and teacher) Jessica Paquette will be living in the home as her primary residence. I am currently training with Forest Schools Canada on how to create a school environment with a focus on care for the environment and relationship to the land and community. I appreciate your expertise in this process.

Take Care,
